

Policy paper

Draft Statement of Strategic Priorities for online safety

The draft Statement of Strategic Priorities sets out government's online safety policy priorities and desired outcomes.

---

From: Department for Science, Innovation and Technology
(/government/organisations/department-for-science-innovation-and-technology)

Published 20 November 2024

Documents

Draft Statement of Strategic Priorities for online safety

\(/government/publications/draft-statement-of-strategic-priorities-for-online-safety/draft-statement-of-strategic-priorities-for-online-safety\)

HTML

Details

The Statement of Strategic Priorities for online safety sets out government's priorities for online safety which Ofcom, the independent regulator, must have regard to when exercising its regulatory functions.

Priorities within the statement must be connected to Ofcom's online safety functions. As such, the statement focuses on priorities captured within the existing regulatory framework.

The priorities are:

- Safety by design
- Transparency and accountability

- Agile regulation
- Inclusivity and resilience
- Technology and innovation

Published 20 November 2024

---

OG

All content is available under the Open Government Licence v3.0, except where otherwise stated

© Crown copyright